PART B: COMMENTS
Comments *	We as the people of Canada are not represented by elected officials when these officials submit to large corporate entities in exchange for political donations. We have regulations enacted that are to protect the citizens, enviroment, safety etc. etc. We as citizens are expected to follow these rules and regulations. Large companies can afford to hire expensive lawyers to change situations to benefit them. If a corporation cant conduct business profitably under the rules, perhaps it's not a business that should be operating. A prime example at the moment is big pharma. The vaccine injuries act let's the manufacturers off the hook and the government issues compensation. It's not the governments money. It belongs to the taxpayers. Nothing is government funded. Everything is taxpayer funded. Politicians seem to have forgotten who pays the Bill's.
