This Bill is yet another unnecessary imposition of government regulation of the private sector. The proposed legislation will simply serve to baulkenize the automotive service industry, and place onerous requirements on the automotive industry service providers. I urge you to allow the free market system to deal with the very few unscrupulous service providers. Those that are unscrupulous are weeded out, as customers will not return. Studies have demonstrated that a customer that receives good service will, on average, tell 3 people, while a customer that received poor service will, on average, tell 7 or more people. This is not an issue that required government intervention.

I urge this government to quash this bill as there is absolutely no need for such intervention by public policy.
