Lobbyists should be restricted to the same opportunities for access to government leaders (both govt. staff and politicians) as any member of the public, or any special interest group. That is, they should have NO special lobbying privileges, NO additional access.
This opinion is built on the premise that lobbyists are paid and have all day every day to try to get access to decision makers whereas the rest of us are "volunteers" (not being paid to lobby)who are trying to make a living as well as try to get our opinions to govt. leaders.
NO to special access for lobbyists!
